Colman Coyle Solicitors was established in 1984 and based in Islington, London.The firm is divided into the following three sectors:Business Client sectorPrivate Client sectorProperty & Construction sectorUnderpinning these sectors we have all the legal departments, located in our Islington office that you would expect from a commercial firm. We understand that our clients benefit from having confidence that their solicitors understand their business needs and objectives, whilst at the same time, recognise the constraints they operate under. For this reason we have tailored the way we work into the three sectors and as such never offer a one size fits all solution.From our Islington Based office, our solicitors represent a mixed bag of clients from large corporate organisations to independent businesses and sole traders. Whatever the size of your business operation, we pride ourselves on being extremely client focused and believe in building long lasting relationships with you. www.colmancoyle.com for further information
