Forensic Analytics is at the leading edge of the automation of digital forensics and cell site analysis.Our primary product is CSAS - the Cell Site Analysis Suite - which automates much of the data processing activity related to importing, processing and understanding telephone call data records. CSAS recognises and imports all UK cellular call data formats, from all UK operators, and processes it into a standard, easy to understand format.We provide tools to analyse call data, to create maps showing the locations of the cell masts used by subject phones and can also output the data in a variety of 'court-ready' formats.Our customers include police forces and cell site analysis professionals, and we believe that CSAS has a broader appeal to solicitors, barristers and other legal professionals who wish to understand the evidence provided by call data records without necessarily engaging a cell site expert to explain it to them.Call us to arrange a demonstration and a free evaluation
