What is really going on? This is the question that VERITAS P.I. was established to answer. Whether it is a business, domestic or personal relationship, VERITAS P.I. will investigate your concern and report the truth back to you. We always assume that our investigations will result in litigation which can be expensive. We therefore always pursue the objective of providing factual evidence that will reduce the expense of obtaining justice. In addition to offering professional investigation services, the agency also provides professional Process Serving services. In the UK, many legal documents can be served by post, but some legal documents must be personally served upon the recipient because of a rule of law. Personal Service of legal documents by a professional independent and impartial third party remains the most effective and reliable way to ensure compliance with the legal procedural requirements and to minimise costs and delay in litigation.
